Mith Thoroughbred begins a new era for publications in the University of Louis-ville. Mhere formerly was one magazine, with a more pretentions final number, are now two distinctly managed books, a monthly magazine and an annual. Me hope that this, the first edition of Thoroughbred, will serve not only to portray the college life of 1924, but to indicate to the people of Louisville the ever increasing greatness of their University.

The Thoroughbred 1924

The Kentucky Cardinal of which The Thoroughbred is the last number, is published monthly by the students of the University of Louisville, the Cardinal Board of Control consisting of Robert B. Leonard, Louise Pennington, George Patterson, Wilson W. Wyatt, Ralph Schwaninger, Hargis A. Bush, E. E. Curry, L. D. Pankey, John Moremen and Lois Piper, acting as the publishing body. The editorial rooms are at 119 West Broadway, Louisville, Kentucky.

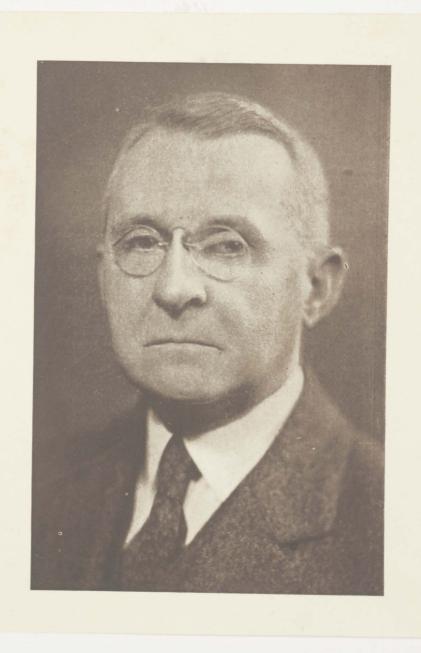

"Entered as second class matter January 18, 1922, at the post office at Louisville, Kentucky, under the act of March 3, 1879."

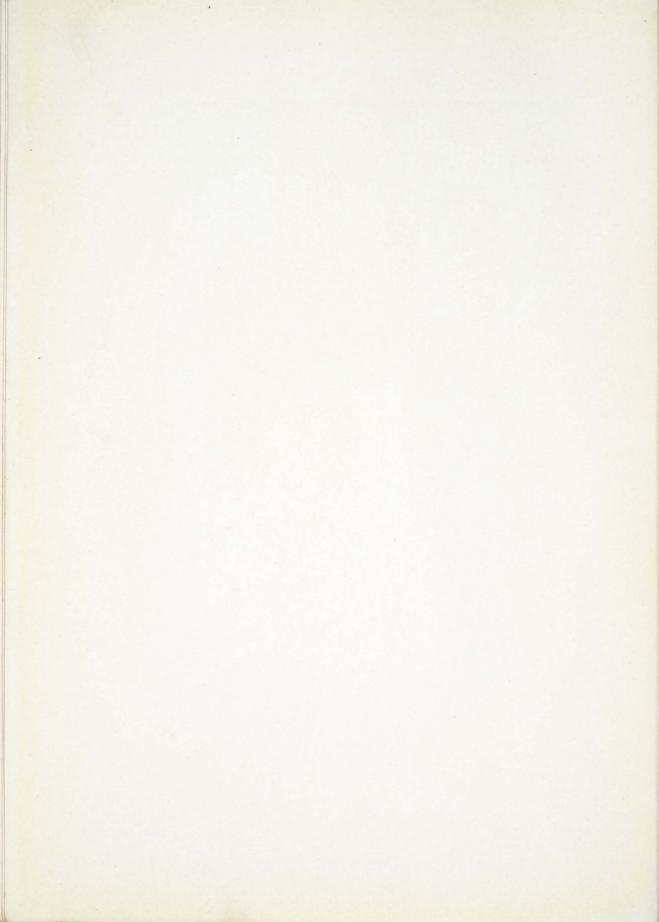

"Acceptance for mailing at special rate of postage provided for in section 1103, Act of October 3, 1917, authorized January 27, 1922."

So great is the wisdom and learning in the University of Louisville that, on the second of May, there came a knowing old owl to perch himself at the side door of the College of Arts and Sciences from where he could gaze sleepily into the League Room, nodding his approbation at the diligent lack of study by the spring-fevered students. Why need they study, they, the all-wise? The owl had come to prove it. He consented without hesitation to the taking of this portrait, but when asked for an interview he would say only that his mere presence at the college was significant enough in itself,—a hint to the wise being sufficient.

Journalism Club

To say that the preëminent purpose of the Journalism Club is to obtain ultimately for the University of Louisville a chair of journalism is to give sufficient reason for its existence.

Since the newspaper, more than any other medium, exercises such tremendous and far-reaching influence upon public thought and action intelligent and honest journalism is essential and vital to the progress of civilization. Whether or not the press is to work for the detriment or the good of the world depends upon the quality and character of the men and women composing the newspaper forces.

No happier channel for the inculcation of high journalistic ideals could be desired than the universities and the colleges. Journalism chairs and journalism clubs are springing up in educational institutions throughout the country.

With this lofty purpose in view the Journalism Club of the University of Louisville was organized in the autumn of 1922 by James Bent Taylor, Samuel E. Hyman, and Mary Elizabeth Theobold. Mr. Taylor was elected the first president of the new organization unanimously. For the most part the work of the first year consisted in interesting the high school students of the city in a Chair of Journalism for the University of Louisville.

Samuel Hyman was chosen president for the second year unanimously. Under his able leadership the club has grown and has taken appreciable strides towards the consummation of the club's chief purpose. During the past year the club has enjoyed comprehensive discussions by Dr. E. B. Fowler, Dr. Holznecht, and E. A. Jonas. Most of the programs consisted of papers on various angles of newspaper work by the club members. An inspection of the Louisville newspaper establishments was made.

The officers and roll for 1923-1924 follows:

Glee Club

The Glee Club, the oldest organization in the University, has had a banner year. Fred Cowles, Director of the Louisville Conservatory of Music, directed the singers during the first semester but was forced to give up his position in the Club because of overwork, to Arthur Mason, Dean of the Conservatory. Mr. Mason is a musician through and through, and has performed miracles for the organization.

Jonah Skiles, President for the second time, cannot be given too much credit. He has played a great part in swelling the membership until it now numbers forty-six.

LANGUAGE CLUB

LA SOCIETE FRANCAISE

The University of Louisville Players

A little girl once gave utterance, when asked a question by a gentleman named Wordsworth, to the celebrated reply, "We are seven." With the same naive simplicity we can go her three better and proudly proclaim, "We are ten-years old." And so we are. The University of Louisville Players have now been extant for the tenth part of a century, which feat being accomplished, we, meaning the Players, can surely pause from our producing and, with head thrown back, give vent to a long, loud crow-dramatically, of course, in keeping with our business of the drama. Behold us then, ye critical, cruel public, in this attitude and give ear to our joyous squawk, "We are ten years old." During this cycle of time the Players have, without the interlude of a single year, presented for public approval plays of the better sort, carefully directed, produced, and acted. Useless labor it would be to tell how the organization has grown from a small thing to a great; how the many obstacles amateurs have to face have gradually been overcome; how a large, loyal patronage has, by hard and conscientious labor, been built up from a small following; how a meager treasury has grown into a fund large enough to enable the Players to produce really good things well—useless because all this has been told before and will be told hereafter. Suffice it to remark again that we are ten years old, and that this period of tenacious clinging to existence was not filled with bountiful recompense rewarding merely feeble, half-hearted effort. They were years of struggle.

The anniversary of the Players was fêted with a very successful season. True, disaster loomed at first when our director, Mr. Boyd Martin, threatened to resign because of overwork. But this catastrophe was circumvented, and everyone settled down contentedly to a satisfying winter of play producing. Following the example of last year, five evening-length plays were presented in addition to innumerable oneacts given by student directors on Saturday afternoons. Prior to the opening of the season, the Players inaugurated a Little Country Theater at the Kentucky State Fair. Six one-act plays were offered, one every hour from two o'clock until nine. This venture was actuated by a twofold purpose: first to acquaint people from all parts of the State with the most active amateur dramatic organization in the State; and second, to demonstrate to out-of-town visitors how cheaply and efficiently an effective dramatic entertainment may be produced. Although no financial profits were realized, the results of the experiment justified it. Unfortunately, as the bulk of the work fell on the director and the stage manager, these two, namely, Mr. Martin and Hugh Sutton, bordered on physical collapse at the expiration of the week. The plays produced were Neighbors, The Dear Departed, The Teeth of the Gift Horse, 'Op O' Me Thumb, and Overtones. On the whole it was a courageous venture, deserving more credit than it received, but still far from barren of success.

The first regular production opened the Dramatic Work Shop with performances on the evenings of October twenty-sixth and twentyseventh. The play was a farce by H. V. Esmond, entitled Eliza Comes To Stay. A placid, respectable English bachelor is rudely snatched from his peaceful routine by the advent of the orphaned daughter of a friend who had once saved his life. Consequently the bachelor, the Honorable Sandy Verrall, feels it incumbent upon himself to accept the charge of his deceased friend's only child, whom he confidently expects to have reached the tender age of eight years. The orphan, however, has inconsiderately arrived at eighteen, so that the rocking-horse and other toys he has purchased for her are, in a way, rather useless. Not only is the orphan eighteen-she is ugly and ignorant and unconventional and altogether heathenish, and quite shocking to Sandy's staid relatives. But the ugly duckling blossoms out, as they have a way of doing, and her bedraggled feathers develop into the beautiful plumage of the swan, or ostrich, if you prefer that. Having saved the perplexed young man from the wiles of a scheming actress, she smites the heart of the bachelor's best friend, seeing which, Sandy's eyes are opened to the remodeled plumage, and he surrenders his claims to bachelorhood.

Minelle Pulford did a nice bit of work as the duckling, losing none of the farcical opportunities, and blossoming forth satisfactorily into the ostrich. George Patterson was convincing as Sandy. Mr. Sutton and Margaret Wooldridge, as the uncle and aunt were outstanding. Corwin Short gave a highly original but adequate performance as the friend, and Katherine Stoerr, the actress, was charmingly serpentine.

In December came Don, Rudolph Besier's comedy of manners, which was not appreciated as it should have been. It is one of the few plays with a serious message that is yet convincing and thoroughly actable. The question is, should one human being treat another as humanity prompts or as convention dictates. A young poet with a sympathy which sees through externals rescues a young girl from her husband, a religious fanatic, who had bullied and tortured her. The poet brings her to the house of his father, a clergyman, for refuge and shelter. The action of the play revolves around the varied feelings of the poet's father and mother, his fiancee and her father and mother, at his unconventional proceedings. It is a fine play probing deeply and fearlessly into society and its veneer. Paul Briney, making his debut as the poet, showed tremendous ability in his sympathetic and understanding interpretation of the role. Especially outstanding were Anna May Byrne playing the mother of the poet and Mary McClure as the persecuted young woman, although all of the roles were deftly handled.

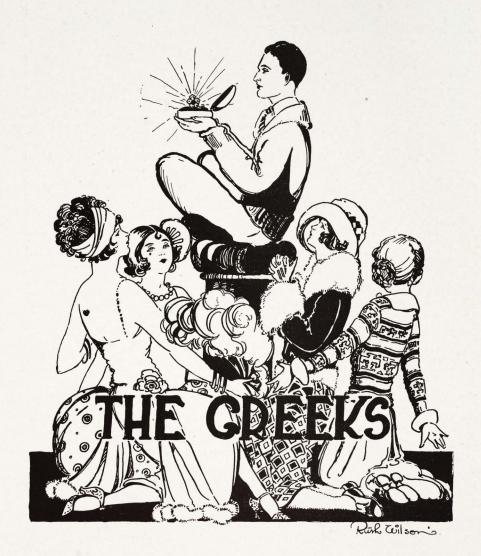

Macauley's was the scene of the third production shown three times on February twenty-ninth and March first. The "big play" was The Chinese Puzzle, which proved a fitting and unusually successful vehicle. As an enormous amount of hard work was necessary to this production, its success was quite deserved—thank you. Scenery crew, art staff, property team, all worked as much as did the mere actors, to say nothing of the director. The puzzle, as in all orthodox mysteries, is, who stole the papers? Or rather, who photographed them, in this case. Unfortunately there was no child to be torn up if the desired information was not forthcoming; nevertheless—but it is not considered quite au fait to bare the plot of a play of the mystery type, and as we would rather be au fait than president we will say only that the management requests audiences not to divulge the denouement. If you liked it tell it to your friends; if not, tell it to the Marines.

Review after the manner of all college papers:

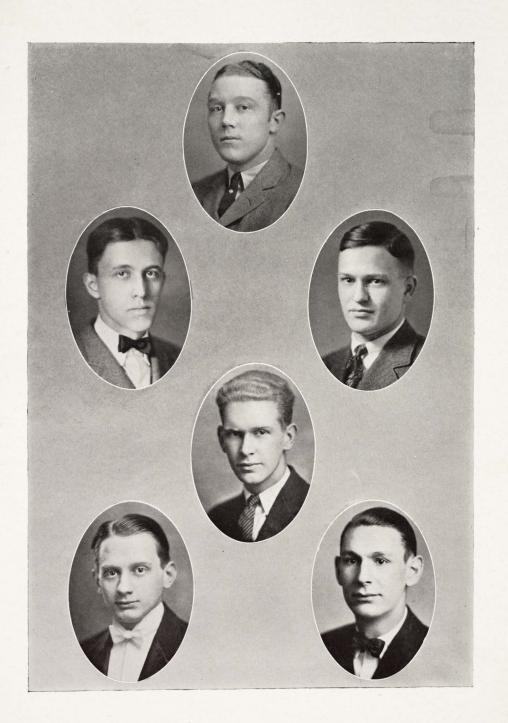

"Edmund Bottomley was marvelous as the Marquis Chi Lung who is best described as a Walking Aphorism. Louise Pennington, the nerve-wracked heroine, won buckets-full of sympathy from everyone and was really marvelous. Hugh Sutton gave a marvelously volatile interpretation of the Frenchman, while Warwick Anderson was marvelous looking as the hero. George Patterson and Ethelmae Tuell were marvelous—in fact, the whole cast was marvelous, if we do say it ourselves.

Just Suppose, was played in the Workshop on April tenth, eleventh, and twelfth, then taken to Anchorage to open the Community Theater there on May third. This delightful bit of sentimental foolishness is founded on the assumption, "Just suppose the Prince of Wales fell in love with an American girl." Mr. A. E. Thomas works out the problem to a satisfactory conclusion in his charming manner. Hugh Sutton, as the Prince, Dorothy Moremen, as the girl, and Paul Briney, as Bubbles, completely dominated the performance.

The season closed with Hobson's Choice, by Harold Brighouse, with Ruth Wilson and George Patterson in the leading roles. With this production we are trying a new venture, that of playing at Fontaine Ferry Park for the week of May twenty-sixth. As this goes to press, the piece is in an early stage of preparation, but advance reports indicate that it will be one of the best attractions of an unusually excellent season.

Renaissance

On December 14, 1923, an idea which originated in the minds of a group whose names appear here, was acted upon, and thus the new creation known as the Renaissance Fraternity appeared among the fraternal bodies of the University.

The charter members are actuated by a worthy purpose, the accomplishment of which will terminate in the existence of a new spirit of fellowship between the medical and academic departments. Although in its infancy, the Renaissance Fraternity has made its presence felt, and is supporting and encouraging all student activities.

The charter members are:

Oath of Hippocrates

I swear by Apollo the physician, by Aesculapius, by Hygeia, Penates and all the gods and goddesses, that, according to my ability and judgment, I will keep the oath and stipulation to reckon him who teaches me the art equally dear to me with my parents; to share my substance with him, and relieve his necessities, if required; to look upon his offsprings upon the same footing with my brothers and to teach them this art, if they wish to learn it, without fee or stipulation; and that by precept, lecture and every other mode of instruction I will impart a knowledge to my own sons, to those of my teachers and to disciples bound by a stipulation and oath according to the law of medicine, but to no others.

"I will follow that system of regime which, according to my best judgment, is best for my patients, and abstain from whatever is injurious. I will give no deadly medicine to any one if asked, nor suggest any such counsel. Furthermore, I will not give to any woman an instrument to procure abortion. With purity and holiness will I pass my life and practice my art.

"I will not cut a person who is suffering with stone, but will leave this to be done by those who are practitioners of such work. Into whatever houses I enter I will go for the advantage of the sick, and will abstain from any voluntary act of mischief and corruption, and from the seduction of females or males, bond or free. Whatever in connection with my professional practice, or not in connection with it, I may see or hear, I will not divulge; holding that all such things should be kept secret.

"While I continue to keep this oath inviolate, may it be granted me to enjoy life and the practice of my art, respected always by all men; but should I break through and violate this oath, may the reverse be my lot."

Log of the Medicinia

THE MEDIC'S LAMENT

"I am tired of all my studies Of doing my work on the run I'm weary of watching my neighbors Whose life is one long round of fun. I'm weary of quizzing and boning As busy as five hundred bees While others are playing or sleeping In languid and indolent ease. I'm tired of the constant endeavor For grades that are tawdry to see. I long for that rest that is ever A thing in the distance for me." (By the Ship's Clerk)

DEDICATION

To all those passengers of the good ship Medicinia, who have successfully completed the voyage; who escaped being dashed to destruction on the pony breakers; who have tenaciously clung to the slimy hull when the "C" was rough; who have heard the Lorelei of pleasure and still clung fast, deaf to her seductive voice; and to the fond memory of the souls lost, swept into the briny deep after many words of warning, cut off in the flower of their college career and washed ashore on some forsaken coast to run fruit farms and to seek other lucrative positions; this volume is pathetically dedicated.

EDITOR'S NOTE: The log of the Medicinia was compiled from memoranda found in a floating milk bottle which bore a sanitary label. It was cast overboard by the ship's clerk just before the old tub floundered in a fearful simoon off the rocks of Experience, near the port of Life. The log was written in a trembling hand on pages of a Blue Book and was barely legible. The editor of this volume has preserved as far as possible the style and spirit of the Log-keeper whose identity is unknown.

INTRODUCTION

In the beginning there was no work. Mother Eve, in the languid quiet of the garden, was free to peruse the Tri-weekly editions of the Fliegende Blaetter, searching for Butterick's latest ideas on sheath skirts, or musingly plan the architecture of the first pie foundry. Her spouse wandered aimlessly around the tree of life or spent his spare hours propping up the Garden wall with fresh copies of the Saturday Evening Post. In the afternoons during his spare moments he planned the Materia Medica course as given in the freshman year. Satan had yet to invent that peculiar instrument of torture, known as the Anatomy department to fill the sleepless nights with anguish and make the days of the School of Medicine Sojourn a continuity of hideous Nightmares. Flunktests were unknown. The Patriarch Noah, the first Chemist, who has to put into form the demonstration of the effects of fluids, had not yet been born. Everything was Goosey and Love hung high.

WHY DID THE HAPPY COUPLE PARTAKE OF THE FORBIDDEN FRUIT? FIRST YEAR

It was on such a day as this, some 9,364,0002391 Moons, sooner according to the most careful Geological reckoning, namely September 10, 1920, that a Heterogeneous Conglomeration of 73 husky hopefuls, among whom a thin Sprinkling of Females, gathered together at the Port of Knowledge to take passage on the good ship Medicinia for the Holy Land of Wisdom. Before setting sail we gathered in the spacious quarters in the hull of the ship, known as THE BULL PEN. Here were gathered wise and experienced seamen who had gone this way before us. Admiral McMurtry, congratulated us upon our desire to take passage on such a good ship, and assured us that we were embarking during a golden age of opportunity. After this inspiring message we hastened to the top deck where the Mate announced, "I'm here furr to call the roll". The whistles blew. The sharp command of the Officers rang out. Quartermaster Sesselpenus slipped on board with his faithful pony at the last minute. The anchor rattled, the screw churned up great seas of foam, our breasts heaved with the heaving deep and we steered bravely out into the moist and moaning sea.

All Summer the stevedores, under the directions of the faculty assisted by various straw bosses had been busy loading in the Hold with provisions for the voyage.

In the cargo were the following:—25,000 bottles of Sanitary milk; 25,000 nipples for same:—57 pictures of "HER", deduction made for same pictures listed more than once; 1,400 kegs of Camel's, 19,368 bales of Dukes Mixture. 10,000,000 cigarette papers, 7,500 boxes of Mail pouch, 100 trial plugs of Peiper Heidsick; 9 loaves of bread.

FIRST WEEK OUT:-

Longitude 5 degrees west, latitude 41 degrees North, Course 5:SE weather squally Threw overboard some pre-med school sweaters, 9,384 bales of Dukes Mixture, and the 9 loaves of bread. The bones of the crew of the belated ship, Stiff, were found on a floating raft. We learn that bones are long, short, flat and rolling.

JUNE, 1921:-

Weather balmy. Made port at summer haven here. Mate Pinkie persuaded several passengers to repeat their training aboard the Summer Excursion boats. S. S. Wisconsin and S. S. Indiana were the favorites.

SECOND YEAR

SEPTEMBER 10, 1921.

(Pulled up to the pier after Summer cruise to take on new supply of cigarettes and Peiper Heidsick.) During the summer, we had lost many of the more convivial members, some of whom were probably lured to the rocks into matrimony, some had taken passage on other ships and many were led into the sea of unrest by the sirens of the soil. Again the Medicinia turned her prow toward the briny, billowy deep. Many new officers had been added to the personnel. Lieutenant Gingle-balls, a rare and unusual hero of olden days told of some of the most intimate secrets of such famous personages as Belladona (via;—Turner) and Lady Webster. Each passenger was advised to eat an apple a day. Often we were called upon the promenade deck and taught how to give aid to the injured. Many sharks followed the ship and shot long formulae into the air. All passengers took turns in trying to lure innocent bacteria from their native culture so that we could be GRAM sure who they were. Errors were Grave-s and numerous until one wise man from the East devised a plan whereby they could be told without the use of a microscope. Toward Christmas, the sun was sighted and it was reported that we were in Latitude 186 South of Bear Grass Creek. Hub Hucker had mistaken a full moon for a rising sun and we nearly ran aground on a Bootleg Bar.

A herd of goats was sighted on Lecture Island. They were being fed a lot of Hay and several of the straw bosses went to assist with the feeding. Grave things were happening and after Christmas, most of the passengers decided to follow the straight and narrow Path. The sharks continued to give trouble. Toward the end of May a wave of inefficiency swept over our decks and many of the weaker sailors were swept overboard. Many ponies were lost in the storm.

JUNE 5th:-

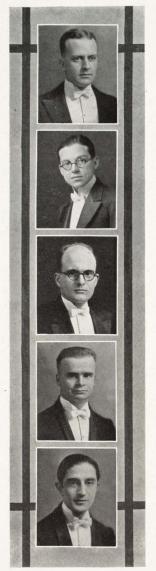

Reached port with supplies very low, there being only one plug of Peiper Heidsick and nine cigarettes in the hold. Spent Summer in fishing smacks.

Theta In Epsilon

The Theta Nu Epsilon Fraternity was founded at Wesleyan University in 1870. Originally a sophomore society, its aim is social enjoyment and promotion of class allegiance. A small number of sophomores representing various fraternities were admitted to membership. Chapters were soon established at many colleges. A limited number of chapters were established without the consent of the organization. Opposition from various schools and fraternities necessitated the utmost secrecy and the fraternity became "subrosa" in nearly all schools. In 1909 there was a reorganization with practically a new administration, beginning with the publication of a journal.

The local chapter is confined to the Medical Department. Only members of the sophomore class in good standing are eligible for membership. It was granted a charter in May, 1911. This chapter will be host for a National Convention to be held in Louisville in 1925. After this convention the Fraternity will in all probability be an "open" Fraternity in all the Colleges where there are chapters.

On the night of December 15, 1923, a meeting was held at the Medical School for the purpose of organizing a Pan Hellenic Council. The following fraternities were represented: Phi Chi, Kappa Psi, Alpha Kappa Kappa, Phi Beta Pi, and Phi Delta Epsilon.

The purpose of this organization is to promote better inter-fraternity spirit, to regulate fraternity affairs in pledging and social functions and to act as a judicial body in all questions that might arise between fraternities.

Alpper Class Student Conneil

The fall of 1922 witnessed the launching of the Upper Class Student Council upon what promises to be a lasting and useful career. The organization of this body sprang from Dean Graves' long cherished desire for more intimate contact between him, the faculty, and the students. Acting on the Dean's suggestion, the five fraternal bodies and the nonfraternity men elected a junior and a senior representative from their members to form the council which has been functioning with an ever increasing degree of success. It is an instrument of great potentiality in so far as the welfare of the students, particularly, are concerned, and can be made a powerful influence in the workings of the School of Medicine. Members of the Council include White, Bush, Bushong, Townes, Harmon, Embry, Ray, Seay, McCormick, Vandervert, Krieger, and Jacquays from the student body; Doctors Graves, Moore, P. T. Barbour, and Homberger from the faculty.

The History of the Class of 1924

It was the first week of October, 1920, calm and peaceful, radiant with hope, cheer and joyous promise, that the good ship "University of Louisville, College of Dentistry" stood at anchor at the wharf of a new school year. It was the same old ship that had carried many passengers to safe harbor, but this was a gala week in its history, at least so it seemed to the fifty-eight new passengers that stepped aboard, for we all knew that we were to sail over new and untried waters in the quest for the Fountain of Perfect Wisdom and understanding of a wonderful profession, and the prize of D. D. S.

Soon all the berths were filled. We were naturally very enthusiastic and asked many questions of our captain as to the incidents of our voyage and its probable length, and were assured that if we were persevering and diligent in our duties, we should reach our destination at the end of four years. So it was with hopeful hearts and smiling faces that we bade our parents and friends goodbye, as we steamed away from the wharf and out of the harbor, actually embarked for a year's absence on our voyage in the "College of Dentistry."

There were naturally a few cases of seasickness and several were tempted to throw up Anatomy, Chemistry and other disagreeable and indigestible dishes and toss their belongings overboard, when the rough seas overtook us. It was thus that our number was reduced from fifty-eight to thirty-five at the end of the first year, and from then on the number decreased steadily until of the original fifty-eight, only thirty-one remain.

It would take too long to read the complete account of this eventful voyage through the four seas lying between us and our destination. It would be very interesting to tell of the many delightful experiences, the many wonderful lessons, the changes in the passenger list at the various ports along the way, but after all, it has but little vital significance except to ourselves, the few who still remain together to land at the commencement wharf. We must not divulge the secrets of our shipmates; we must not forget the loyalty due to our class as a whole. The best and most vital history of any person or thing is never given to the world. So must it be with the class of 1924.

It has been a most wonderful voyage, and we have accumulated many souvenirs from every port, striving, however, to guard against the danger of excess baggage and of taking unto ourselves anything which would not be of service to us on the yet greater voyage of Real Life upon which we are to embark soon.

We have not faced any gale which we were not able to withstand. We have not been wrecked upon the shoals of any threatening task. The tides of our averages have continued to ebb and flow. The waves of adversities have kept up their ceaseless motion and commotion; the billows of examination questions have sometimes tried their worst to overwhelm us. But none of them have succeeded. We have been able to secure the necessary support at the entrance of each succeeding sea, and have been able to pay the price in good hard work for every part of the passage. Now we look at the larger and more majestic ocean ahead, and feel that our experience has fitted us to withstand every storm, and weather any opposing force with no fear of disaster. We will go on writing new accounts of greater adventure and yet more wonderful discoveries, for while the Voyage of College Life is at an end, the Voyage of Real Life is just now and here at its triumphant commencement.

Sophomores

In September 1922, the class of '26 arrived at Brook and Broadway to begin its study of dentistry, at which we of the class knew nothing of what we were expected to accomplish. During our first year we fought hard. We won. Every man staying throughout his entire freshman year was promoted to the sophomore class, but all of them have not finished with it, having gone into other fields. There have, however, been several additions this year.

As we leave the sophomore class we are glad, as work was hard, troubles plenty. But we may now look back with a degree of satisfaction not merely because we have been through it, but because we have accomplished something that only a dentist can appreciate. Also, we are looking forward to the time when we will be permitted to enter the Clinic, wear a white coat, and have a patient in all sincerity call us "Doctor."

The fad of golf playing came in when the colossal structure across from the Brown burned, after which fire, a sale was held in the sporting

Some of the boys have natural ability; others by hard and consistent work have managed to establish new records in scoring that have never been heard of in this State of fast golfers and pretty women. Every man keeps his own score, of course, but "Panke," with his knowledge of math, makes the best one.

Goodbye old Cherokee and U. of L. You will find us next year at the State Dental meetings of the several States trying for the silver cup of the society.

Football

The closing of the 1923 football season brought to an end the most successful of all football years since the athletic rebirth in the University. It was a great success in more ways than one, the first being the acquirement of as good a coach as Fred Enke, former Minnesota University star, and his valuable assistant, Cliff Duncan, well known throughout this part of the country for his great work while playing with Transylvania. The team speaks for the ability of these two men. The second success was the record of the team, five wins and three losses. The losses should not have been taken hard for they were in two instances against teams that ranked the best in their section, while the third was a culmination of several poor breaks coming toward the close of the first game, which was more or less an experiment of the coach's new system.

The third success of the season is one of which any college in the country could be justly proud—that is of not having its home goal line crossed by the opposition throughout the entire season. Although several times our oppo within our ten yard were repulsed with score.

The team was lectively the "fight ever represented the with a great abund stitutes, as a good boys always fought injured so severely able to continue, yet out of each game their own playing better at the next individually and colingest" team that U. of L. Not blessed ance of capable subteam should be, the until exhausted or that they were unthey always came dissatisfied with and vowing to do opportunity.

Practically no one stood out above the others, in fact, Coach Enke would not permit any individual starring as he preached that team work was the means of greatest success. It was this team work that paved the way to the success that the Fighting Cardinals enjoyed. We had a team that when started was hard to stop. The method of attack was versatile and had the opponents guessing at all times. However, as always the rule, one method of scoring stood out above the others—our passing attack always gained ground when others failed. It was this passing that enabled us to beat Rose Poly, Georgetown and Transylvania. It was however, our running game that beat Kentucky Wesleyan and Morris Harvey, although the winning of the latter game was aided materially by the passing combination.

For the three games lost, there is no sorrow. The Western Normal game was the opener, played on a foreign field against a veteran combination on a hot sultry afternoon. The Franklin team was truly superior to our boys and deserved to win, however not without having a bitter fight. The Union College bunch had never struck such opposition on their home grounds as we gave them, and they thanked Fate that they were lucky enough to be on the big end of the score.

The opening game as mentioned before was played against Western Normal at their grounds. The boys were determined to show Coach Enke that they were worthy of the confidence placed in them by being picked to play. They battled long and hard but Fate was unkind and they came out on the short end of a 19 to 7 score.

The next game was the Union College affair, also played away from home. Once more the boys fought, fought harder than they ever did, and almost succeeded in conquering one of the South's strongest teams, but in a momentary let-down Union scored twice. The best we could do was to score but once, so we again tasted the bitter of defeat, 14 to 6.

In our opening game at home the boys displayed a fine brand of football and pleased everyone in the stands by defeating the highly touted Morris Harvey aggregation from West Virginia by a 27 to 0 count.

The game at Franklin was our last defeat. Going in against great odds the Cards fought and held the great Baptist outfit until injuries forced several to the side lines and allowed the Hoosier machine to trample them down to the tune of 34 to 0. This was the only whitewash coating administered to the team this year.

Playing the first annual Homecoming Game, the boys jumped back into the win column by scoring a 13 to 0 victory over the Rose Poly representatives. This was a very pleasing victory as Rose was given an edge on our team. It was this game that brought out for the first time the powerful passing attack.

Transylvania was played in a sea of mud the following week and was beaten 12 to 0. The score does not indicate how much the opposition was outclassed as we outplayed and outfought them the entire way. Our passing won the game once more.

Fresh from the Rose Poly and Transylvania victories, the team encountered Kentucky Wesleyan on a day which more resembled an August than a November afternoon. This factor, and probably overconfidence, kept the bunch from scoring a decisive victory, although we managed to win 7 to 0.

The last game of the year was played at Georgetown with both teams about even on "dope" but the Cardinals asserted their superiority and defeated them with a passing attack by a 12 to 6 count.

As for the players, too much praise cannot be given them. Practicing under trying conditions they all remained faithful until the end. All played clean aggressive football personifying the type of game asked of them by Kentucky's best football coach, Fred Enke.

The Captain, Arthur Vandevert, was a fighter of the first class, always trying and always on the alert. The fellows liked Vandy and always wanted him at his position as guard, which he filled so well.

Captain-elect Osborne, end, who was our best bet on receiving passes, paved the way for many a score. A great fighter, fast, and likeable. Everyone will do his best for Paul next season. Luck to him!

Two Hundred Eight

All our ends were of high class. Bill Pryor and Al Hocker made fine running mates for Osborne. Bill unfortunately is to be lost through graduation but Al will be back.

Daugherty and Baden, the two Harrys, made us a fine pair of tackles.

Hard to get through and always opening big holes.

Fred Caudill and "Pat" Scheingold along with Capt. Vandervert made up a trio of excellent guards, always heard from in each game.

Watson, "Lanky" Haws at center found no one that could outplay him. He was surely a whale at his job and shows indications of being even better next year.

Dewey Kimbel, our sterling field general, has told us good bye. We hated to see him leave as his play featured every game he played. Kimbel also made an impressive record as quarter.

Our halves, Tommy Kienzle, Marty Corso, and Armand Fischer will all be ready to give the same good account of themselves next year as they did this season. Fast and hard to stop, these three men were certainly a trio to be feared.

Garland Weidner and Sam Thomson made two excellent, hardhitting full backs who were feared by all the opposition.

The subs, Harry Simon at half, Morris Robinson, at guard and tackle, Lambert Glass at center, Elmer Terry at guard, Bill Brohm at end and "Tubby" Riddell at tackle formed a most formidable array of substitutes, ever being well heard from when in the game.

The scrubs should be paid their tribute as they did a lion's share of work in making the team. They were certainly a great bunch of boys always giving their best cheerfully in endeavoring to make a team for the University.

Sam Hyman as student manager of athletics did much to help out during the season. He deserves a vote of thanks from all.

Charlie Moran, Herb Lyle and Jimmy Jones, as assistant managers of football, did work that merits the praise of all those out for the team. They toiled overtime in endeavor to make the squad comfortable and gave them the best possible. They were under the direction of Jack Laffan, student manager.

The following were awarded letters: Capt. Vandervert, Captainelect Osborne, Pryor, Hocker, Weidner, Daugherty, Baden, Scheingold, Haws, Caudill, Fischer, Kienzle, Corso, Thomson, Manager of Athletics, Hyman, and Manager of Football, Laffan.

Basketball

The past basketball season was in practically every respect a disappointment to the entire student body of the University. In the matter of games won and lost, the season was far from the success that the football one was, but taking into consideration the numerous obstacles Coach Enke had to overcome, was not the disappointment that the record of the team would indicate.

At the beginning of the year two men on whom the entire University had been counting to star were declared ineligible by the school authorities. The second blow came to the team just as Mr. Enke thought he had found his winning combination when two men were forced to leave the squad on physicians' advice, and a third dropped out of the college to attend another institution.

These ineligibilities and withdrawals from the squad forced the coach to change his plans no less than three times, which would have been enough to make any team stop; but in spite of it all the boys went through the season fighting to the last, endeavoring to uphold the repution the University had gained in football.

Much to the sorrow of everyone the team lost both games to Centre, the gang that made such a fine showing in the Southern Tournament, by the score of 34 to 32 and 31 to 30.

We split a two-game series with both Evansville College and Rose Poly, two of the strongest fires in Southern Indiana.

Georgetown and Wesleyan were both victorious in games played with them. Georgetown was better but Wesleyan should have been beaten on both occasions.

Our sectional foes, Detroit College and University of Virginia, both were victorious in their efforts to defeat the Cardinals. We had Detroit licked but we cracked under the fast pace set by their sterling forward, Lightbody, and were beaten in the last ten minutes, after piling up a commanding lead.

Our series with the Y. M. H. A. was even. We won the first game by upsetting the dope and overwhelming the Hebrews, and lost the second by one point in the last thirty-five seconds of play—rather a bitter pill to swallow.

The Valparaiso Victory Five overcame the Louisville invasion by outplaying the Cards in the first half. In the opening contest of the year we defeated the Presbyterian Seminary gang in a contest that was more or less a practice affair for both quintettes.

Fritz Koster and Claydon were our regular forwards. Koster, while high point man was a trifle light and failed to show up as well as he might have had he been heavier. He will be heard from all the more next year when he takes on more weight.

"Howdy" Claydon, of Minnesota, was our main cog on offense. He seemed the only man on the team capable of penetrating the defense of our opponents with any marked success. "Howdy", having a reputation for fouling, was a marked man for officials who forced him out of a majority of the home contests while he was put out of only two on the road.

"Lanky" Haws, Captain-elect, was center. As he played only the latter part of the season he was not in the pink of condition.

Captain Al. Hocker, the back guard fighting leader of the Cards, was always giving his best, fighting until the last gun.

Jim Blackerby, forward the first part of the year, was converted into a running guard, at which position he shone brilliantly, being the fastest man on the team.

The substitutes, Osborne, center; Smith, forward; Braden, guard; were everything that could be desired—a bunch of fighters who could be counted on to give theirs at all times.

Everyone was loud in praise of Herb Lyle, manager. It is hoped that his studies in the medical school next year will not keep him from aiding the team then, sharing in the success of the brilliant season that we are so confidently expecting.

Two Hundred Fourteen

Baskethall

The University of Louisville is usually represented by a winning girls' basketball team and the season of 1923-24 was no exception as the long list of victories proves.

The team did not win the State championship, but it made a record which may be regarded as indicative of what may be expected of the Cardinal and Black co-ed team in the season of 1924-25. Coach John Reinhardt's fighting Cardinal co-eds were runners-up for the State crown, Kentucky and Transylvania being tied for titular honors. The close games played with Kentucky and Transylvania, however, were encouraging to Cardinal adherents. Transylvania defeated Peabody, Southern champions for five years. A University of Louisville team was the last to administer Peabody a defeat before the Nashville school launched its winning streak.

Impressive victories of the Cardinals this year were the 28-6 and 12-4 conquests of Georgetown, and the 21-9 defeat of Wesleyan.

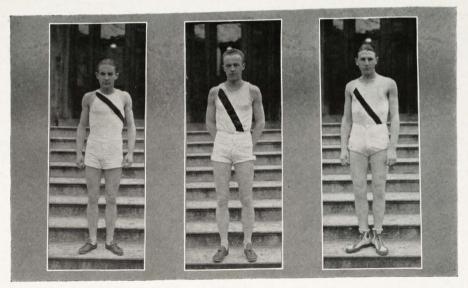

Only two members of the 1924 quintette will be lost through graduation, but they will be regretful losses. When the call for candidates is issued next winter Captain Agnes Borgman and Lillian Moeller will not respond. Miss Borgman captained the team two years in succession. She was an inspiring leader and an aggressive center. Miss Moeller was a speedy, valuable forward.

Dorothy Bowes, sterling backguard, has been elected captain of the 1925 team. Verna Buyer, substitute guard, who showed considerable promise last winter, was chosen business manager.

The Cardinal and Black retains the services of Mary Belle Mc-Callum, star running forward, who combined good defensive game with a keen scoring eye, and who proved to be the team's most valuable player; Esther Ritter, a good scoring forward, who was a teammate of Miss McCallum at the Girls' High School; and Kathryn Stoerr, an aggressive forward, who plays a strong floor game.

Congratulations must be extended to Coach John Reinhardt, who developed a team of real class.

Cross Country

The University stepped out in a new field of athletics when it turned out a cross country team that was very successful. We defeated Kentucky Wesleyan, all our men finishing before an opponent crossed the line. Georgetown was also a victim, scoring twelve out of a possible ten points having a Tiger athlete running third. In the State meet the University of Kentucky defeated us 28 to 35. In this, our green team ran against a veteran combination and it was only after the points had been compiled that the U. of K. knew of their victory, so close a race did we run them. We also ran second to the U. of K. in the annual Y. M. H. A. Thanksgiving cross country run for the Kentucky and Indiana A. A. U. championship.

Our entire team of Capt. Stacy, O'Rourck, Leonard, Hall, Howland, and Keeling will be back next year with the exception of Howland. This is also true of the faithful subs, Goff, Kemp, Gibson, Carter and Hart.

Baseball

For the first time in two years the University of Louisville put a team on the field in this branch of athletics, and too much praise cannot be given for the fine showing that the boys have made up to date. We were handicapped by a late start due to inclement weather, lack of funds, and place to practice. After these difficulties were overcome the boys responded nobly to the cause and we were well represented by one of the best, if not the best, baseball team in the State.

To date eight games have been played. The two game series with Western Kentucky State Normal was halved as was the series with St. Mary's College. We defeated Kentucky Wesleyan in the only game with them, an experience which was repeated with Hanover College. The two game series with the University of Cincinnati was a draw, each team winning as the visiting club.

The University of Louisville was represented on the diamond by the following men: Koster, Bush, Pryor, Combs, and Thurman in the outfield. Osborne on first base, Ray on second, Nelson on third and Pergrem on short. The pitchers were Baily, Kelly and Burleson, while Kienzle and Waggoner took care of the backstop position. This aggregation made up a well balanced machine with good offensive and defensive players of whom the University can be justly proud.

SEPTEMBER 12th, 1923:-

Pulled up to the pier and took a fresh supply of Fortunate Wallops, Fat Emmes and Peiper Heidsick. As usual many had grown tired of the sea-faring life and had sought quiet retreats. Hence we had only forty-nine on board besides the crew. For the third time we left the pier and had turned the prow of the good ship Medicinia toward the sudsy sea. This time our good ship was to plow the waters further up Chestnut Bay off Floyd Island. The passengers were divided into three groups. The first group as soon as they saw No-Land, wanted charge of the ship and to Turn-er around, but that would have been Moore trouble than they were looking for so they decided to stay with the ship. The second section, their spirits made gay by the incoming Winter, became regular cutups. The third group did nothing in special. The voyage was marked by fair weather and smooth sailing. On June 5th we again made port at Summer Haven. Many of the passengers went up into the Mountain in search of Gold. Only one passenger decided to take passage aboard another ship. Before leaving he was heard to say "I Grant you my best wishes but Gee YoU have failed me".

FOURTH YEAR

SEPTEMBER 10, 1923.

Again the good ship Medicinia pulled us to the pier of knowledge and took on a supply of cigarettes and Bull Durham. All but one man reported for roll call. The weather was fair and the waters untroubled. The passengers all took themselves to the upper decks, but few sharks were seen in the wake of the ship. For seven weeks all was peaceful and calm until from the general inactivity, the men became restless and easily irritated.

THE MUTINY:

The whole trouble started over the food. For seven weeks the passengers were fed nothing but Salmon. One of the passengers who thought himself A-liard, thought it would be Nyce if all would Acree to mating. Sigler started the Ball rolling. He claimed that Pryor to leaving Townes, the ship should have fresh provisions. He said the ship could have Thurman sent ahead to gather up provisions, and that if the ship left port without doing so, that we should Turner around. One fellow, Higginbotham, whose first trip had been up the Hudson in the Half Moon, said he had "De-Weeze" in his chest from eating such Woody tasting food, and that Helmus freeze over, before he ever set foot on such a ship again. Even Kessler, the cook, complained saying "Os-born down South were they put out the Price for good food". Finch, a good sailor from the Hills of Old England, ever the optimist claimed that if he had Ha-rrod H'anline, he would catch some White fish. Cammerrano, who hailed from Bushong, China, had been a Bushwacker in Australia, but who now from his obese appearance looked like a Born-stein said that the Israelites coming from the land of bondage had even made Laven-good and that he was in favor of continuing the journey on the ship's rations. Wetherby good or bad, Red-dick a ruffian sprang up to strangle the speaker but Sandoz the sailor prevented him. D'Mal Embry, whom many considered a high Cox had said nothing but took a pinch of Mullin from his pocket, stuffed it into his pipe and settled back for a disagreeable smoke. Fortunately there was one Neblett, who while often dreaming of the Green-baumes of Germany, was yet a Hale fellow, well met and his plea for Justice and Harmon-y stemmed the tide of rebellion. Hutcherson, also a Cherry fellow, took time from his study of squares and Cohens, to plead for a continuation of peaceful relations. Simmons was selected to take the complaint to the Captain of the ship and to arrange for a peaceful settlement. The revolt was ever right for the Victor. That night the good ship Medicinia continued beneath the peaceful lights of the eastern Starr.

From January 4th to 21st the seas were rather squally but there were no casualties.

MARCH 1st.

The grinds are moaning because they haven't more time to study and the Fussers and Cake Eaters are becoming uncontrollable. The Greeks at regular times have been assembling on the upper deck and performing their weird war dances.

Two Hundred Twenty-six

APRIL 17:

A day of rest.

APRIL 27:

The ship sprung a leak just off the Brown light house, and Sessel is trying to stop it with a piece of absorbent cotton and some adhesive tape. Apparat is dipping water continually and Commander Bush, has ordered first Librarian Sandoz to cast the ship's library overboard. Hub Hucker wept when he saw How, When and Why sink into the salty ocean.

MAY 10th:

Dead calm is broken by Thunderbolt from a clear sky. The hold is gradually filling up in spite of Apparat's effort at the pails and Sessel's bull-etins—that the ship is safe. The Medicinia is being tossed about like a leaf in an autumn breeze. The main mast is broken and the sails are flopping uselessly in the gale.

JUNE 5th:

The storm continues. Commander Ford having taken the ship in charge, called us all to the promenade deck and instructed us in the use of Life Preservers. All on board are hurrying to and fro, preparing for the worst. The life preservers are in readiness, the rowboats are being lowered, huge waves are sweeping the decks, in another minute this log will be put into a Sanitary milk bottle and cast overboard, for it looks as if every man must paddle his own canoe

Printing that will always be a Cherished Possession

THE production of books, programs and stationery for the students of America's Universities requires an ability to originate printed forms that will be cherished possessions in the mellow years that follow a university career.

In the libraries of many of the "old grads," will be found books, programs and announcements preserved for their intimate memories and associations.

It is the production of this kind of printing that has brought to this organization its repeated opportunity to serve university men and women.

When the urge is for something better, we will welcome the occasion to submit ideas.
